Man allegedly shoots neighbor's dog with arrow

A man has been charged by police after he allegedly shot his neighbor's dog with a hunting arrow.

Byron Carpenter, 36, of Oakham, allegedly shot the border collie/Labrador retriever mix last month and was charged following an investigation, the Worcester Telegram & Gazette reported. The dog suffered injuries to a leg and has undergone two surgeries.

While authorities said Carpenter shot the dog knowing it was a pet and was tired of its barking, a written statement by Carpenter said he thought it might have been a coyote. METRO

Turning rags into sentimental riches

Cleaning out your closet. Since 2012, Boston's Project Repat has stitched more than 12,000 T-shirt quilts.

All too often people are faced with the difficult task of parting ways with their favorite T-shirts, which is why one local company has stepped up to stitch the nostalgic rags together.

Founded last year, Project Repat recycles surplus T-shirts by turning them into one-of-a-kind quilts.

Co-founders Nathan Rothstein and Ross Lohr point to the sentimentality of their customers as a driving force behind the company.

"Shirts are so personal for us. They really tell stories. A lot of people have a hard time giving them away or throwing them out," said Lohr.

In order to create the blankets, workers remove 12 square inches of the shirts then sew them together to form a quilt. To insulate it, they attach Polartec fleece.

The company recently broke $1 million in revenue, having created more than 12,000 quilts since 2012.

With the Red Sox' recent World Series win, the pair has begun processing a lot of orders from fans who tend to have more merchandise than they can handle.

"A T-shirt is like the adult's form of a trophy," said Rothstein. "They're not going to wear their Red Sox shirt all the time, but they want to be able to commemorate [the win], or turn the memories into a holiday gift. It's awesome to see the different sports T-shirts from the '80s and '90s that people have kept. I don't know what they were waiting for, but they obviously wanted to hold on to them."

Many of their customers are women who have had it with their man's over-stuffed closets.

"A big one for us is a wife or girlfriend who takes her husband or boyfriend's T-shirts that have been cluttering up the drawers for years, and turns them over to us. Sometimes it's to his dismay, but he ends up with a quilt," said Lohr.

By the numbers:

- Small "lap" quilt requires 12 shirts; costs $70.
- A Queen costs $200, and can be made out of as many as 64 shirts.
- Twenty employees in Lawrence, Lowell and Fall River stitch the blankets.
- More information is available at www.projectrepat.com.

Paul Pierce tries to score with home sale

The Lincoln home of Paul Pierce is up for sale. / NICOLAUS CZARNECKI, METRO

Paul Pierce has already cut ties with the Celtics, and now he's trying to cut ties with the Boston area that he called home for more than a decade.

Pierce, the former Celtic fan favorite and team leader, has put his Lincoln home up for sale for $2.649 million.

Pierce owns the home at 79 Winter St. in Lincoln, according to the Globe.

An online listing of the 7,600-square-foot home describes it as having five bedrooms, five bathrooms and two half bathrooms.

Listing agent Patti Salem's website says the home has "first-class space, glamour, privacy and convenience."

"This gracious, architect-designed contemporary combines sleek design with traditional attention to detail, such as the beautiful use of woods and quality craftsmanship throughout," Salem wrote.

Photos of the home show hardwood floors throughout as well as a hot tub with a nearby flat-screen TV.

Teammates

Pierce was traded this summer to the Brooklyn Nets along with Kevin Garnett.

- Garnett also recently put his Concord home up for sale for $4.85 million, but has since reduced it to $4.2 million.

TV. China criticizes 'kill everyone' remark on Jimmy Kimmel show

China sharply criticized talk-show host Jimmy Kimmel on Monday for a remark made by a child on his program which has set off protests by Chinese-Americans in the United States

The controversy blew up when a 6-year-old guest replied "kill everyone in China" after the "Jimmy Kimmel Live" host asked him how the United States should pay back the $1.3 trillion it owes to the world's second-largest economy.

Kimmel replied, "That's an interesting idea."

ABC has issued a statement expressing regret for the incident and Kimmel apologized on Oct. 28 on the show, which is pre-taped. Critics say ABC should have cut the offending segment. REUTERS

Gun violence increasing in PG-13 rated movies

Matthew Modine seen on location for "The Dark Knight Rises" on the streets of Manhattan on Nov. 6, 2011 in New York City. / GETTY IMAGES

Research. Across all films, the number of violent sequences more than doubled during the period.

The amount of gun violence in movies rated PG-13 has more than tripled over the last two decades, says a new study.

When PG-13 first became a designation, movies with that rating had similar amounts of gun violence as G and PG films, researchers found. Now, they sometimes have more shooting scenes than R-rated movies.

"It doesn't take a lot of imagination to figure out there are going to be disturbed kids who are going to see this kind of content," said Daniel Romer.

"The problem for parents is they can no longer rely on the PG-13 rating to tell them there isn't a lot of violence in those films," he added.

Romer worked on the new study at the University of Pennsylvania's Annenberg Public Policy Center in Philadelphia.

Gun-related violence held steady in R-rated movies and declined slightly in G and PG films since 1985.

But the rate of gun violence in PG-13 movies jumped from less than one shooting sequence per hour in films released in 1985 to almost three per hour in 2012 movies. REUTERS

The study

945

The researchers watched 945 movies sampled from the 30 top-grossing films each year between 1950 and 2012. They marked every time a film had a violent sequence and each time that involved a gun that was fired.

DOUGLAS COUPLAND

Douglas Coupland is a Canadian writer, artist and designer. His first novel was 1991's "Generation X: Tales for an Accelerated Culture." His novella, "Temp," of which this is the fourth installment, will be running online and in the pages of your daily Metro each weekday through Nov. 29.

Day 7: Temp is slightly shocked by lunch query

We settled on the Saipan, a Japanese lunch place run by a noisy Belorussian family. It's a quick walk if you cut through the next-door parking lot of AmQex, a defense contractor, and trek over brown grass berms forested with CCTV cameras atop white poles.

We quickly ordered two bento boxes and sat down by a window.

"How's temping?" asked Sarah.

"I get used to feeling disposable."

"You know about the warehouse fire don't you?"

"Know what?"

"Kevin Taylor's wife started it."

"No!"

"Yes. They caught her on the AmQex cameras."

"Holy Moly. Why?" I played dumb.

"Nobody else knows. The Danimal told me."

"Huh."

Our boxes arrived and we quickly ate. Sarah had yet to tell me why we were there — and then she did: "So, are you and Kyle a, um, couple?"

For once I got to roll my eyes. "No! And I keep on feeling like we're two pandas in a Chinese zoo and everyone's waiting for us to mate." I remembered my pledge to be nice.

"Why are you asking?"

"Because I thought maybe he and I…"

"Sarah, you're 40!"

"So?"

"I'm sorry. That just blurted out. But really, Sarah, you're 40 and he's maybe 25."

"All the better."

I sucked in a breath. "Well, he's all yours to win, and he may be getting a job at the refineries, so he's ready to settle down, too."

"You think I'm a perv?"

"No. I say go for it and good luck. He can get you discounts on skateboard equipment, too."

"Meow."

"Just wrapping my brain around this."

We ate the remains of some oily tempura. Then I realized something: "It was very nice of you to ask me first. For real."

"I'm not a monster. And I'm just not another Sarah Unit around the office."

"I guess not."

Walking back, we approached two older guys with cardboard signs begging at the stoplights, one an Afghan vet, the other guy just old and sad. Sarah and I looked at each other.

"What are we going to do?" I asked.

"I always give the old guys something because, I mean, what are they going to do — become Wal-Mart greeters? The young guys … if I think it's going on drugs I don't give. But the Afghan guy doesn't look druggy."

"He just looks so lost and forgotten."

We ended up giving each of them 20 bucks, and Sarah did a cool thing: she asked them each their name, and they were so glad just to be able to say it to someone, and then hear it said back to them — like the world remembered them again. The old guy was Kurt, the younger guy was Darren.

When we got back to the office, there were six police cruisers in the lot, cherries flaring.

And vans. And a K-9 unit.

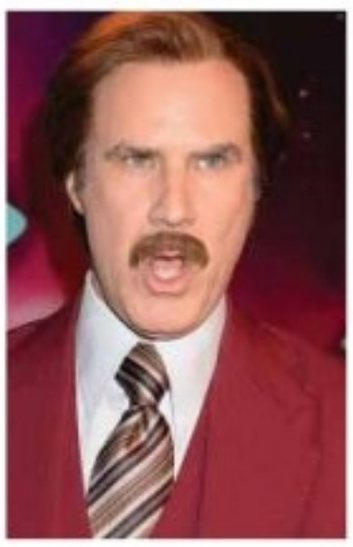
You stay classy, Amsterdam

On Sunday night, Metro hit the red carpet at the MTV European Music Awards, in Amsterdam, before performances by Miley Cyrus and Afrojack, among others. Here's what the celebs said, exclusive to us. MWN

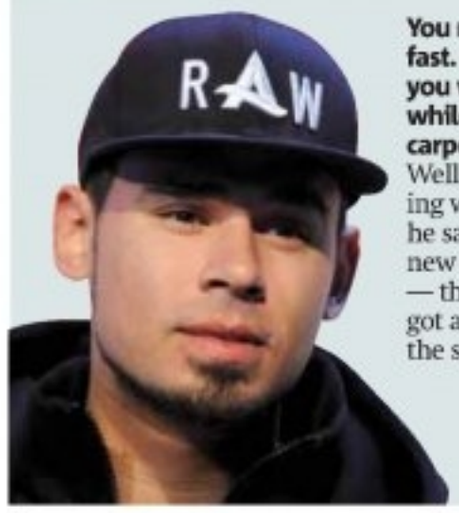
Ron Burgundy, aka Will Ferrell, star of 'Anchorman 2'



Ron, have you been to any coffee shops while in Amsterdam?
I've been to one coffee shop every hour of the day and I've been here six days. So 24 coffee shops every day. Six times 24. What is that? 144?

And how are you feeling?
I've never felt better [looks into middle distance] before.

Afrojack, superstar Dutch DJ



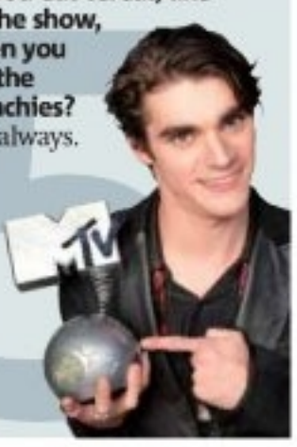
You make music notoriously fast. I was wondering if you wrote a song just now while walking down the red carpet.
Well, actually, I'm performing with Snoop tonight and he said, "Yo, where's that new Afrojack/Snoop joint?" — this was Tuesday. I said, "I got a studio here." So we're in the studio tomorrow. Yeah!

RJ Mitte, aka Walt Jr. on 'Breaking Bad'

"Breaking Bad" has ended. You're responsible for some severe withdrawal.
I like to take some credit for that.

Should drugs be legal?
Sure. All they're gonna do is tax it. I grew up with a lot of medical issues and disabilities — I'm a cancer survivor, I had it when I was a baby. And I took all these medicines. And the one thing I found for people who used weed for medicinal use is they got off all the other medication. You'll never find someone dying for marijuana. Why so many stigmas about it? The only downside is the munchies. It kills your kitchen. That's the only thing it kills, your kitchen.

Do you eat cereal, like on the show, when you get the munchies?
Oh, always.



Jared Leto, 30 Seconds to Mars

Where do you fit in here? No offense.
The fans are pretty young. We have all ages at our shows. It's the spirit of the music. When you're young, music means so much. It's all about identity and discovery.

Sorry, I can barely hear you over the screams for Ron Burgundy.
Ron Burgundy. I saw him in the mosh pit at a show, taking people out right and left. When you look down and see Ron Burgundy at your show in the mosh pit, you know you're doing something

Ariana Grande, pop singer and star of Nick show 'Sam & Cat'

If you could collaborate with anyone here, who's on your list?
Bruno Mars and Miley.

Miley was a child star like you. Do you take any cues from her?
She's doing an amazing job owning her personality and who she is. She's really grown into herself and doesn't care. Me, I dunno. I'm just growing up and loving life. But I can't see myself cutting off my hair — or my fake hair.

How about twerking?
Twerking? I tried in the mirror one time. Not for me.

BACK IN DIGITAL: WOODWARD AND BERNSTEIN BUST NIXON ONCE AGAIN

'All the President's Men'

Company: Warner Home Video
Cost: $19.99

It took only four years for the Watergate scandal to be immortalized on movie screens, complete with two of the era's biggest stars — Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman — playing the only somewhat good-looking Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein. But the results were anything but a triumphant reminder of corruption semi-recently vanquished.

"All the President's Men" may have jam-packed journalism schools with wannabe heroes, but it's a warts-and-all study of professionalism taken to an absurd extreme. Woodward and Bernstein have no lives outside work, nor personality attributes beyond "driven." They ignore vague (and sometimes not-so-vague) threats as they pursue the truth. And neither they nor we get to celebrate their victory as Alan Pakula's stripped down drama ends on a minor note.

The splashy edition that is being released today also includes a new feature-length retrospective documentary exploring the legacy and what the Watergate scandal and Nixon mean today.

Jezebel: From blog to book

Good reads. "The Book of Jezebel" author Anna Holmes gives her take on the evolution of women's interest blogs.

Anna Holmes founded Jezebel in 2007, and what originally started as a small women's-only offshoot of Gawker has since become the Internet's premier women's interest blog. Now, the blog has led to "The Book Of Jezebel," an encyclopedia of "everything important to the modern woman." We spoke with Holmes about the new book and what Jezebel has meant to women everywhere.

Why was this book important to write?
I wouldn't phrase it that way. I thought it was a fun book to oversee and hopefully people will find it important in some ways, but I don't know that I think it was an important book. It was more something that would be an interesting book.

How is the book similar to the blog, and how is it different?
It has the same sensibility because the writers also wrote for the site or are working there now. It's similar in tone and has a similar view of the world. It differs in that it's not a blog. On a blog, posts go away because new posts come and replace them. A blog moves very fast, but a book is very still in time.

Why do you think Jezebel became so successful?
I think because nothing like it existed before and I think it had a very specific point of view. And it was unapologetic about that. I think it attracted like-minded readers who didn't want their content dumbed down.

How has Jezebel impacted other women's interest blogs?
It's hard for me to say, because I don't really know. ... I do think the site helps underscore that there are lots of women who want to read smart content on the Internet and not just be told what to buy or to shop a lot, and you see a lot more sites that treat women as diverse individuals than you did before.

Which blogs do you read?
I don't really read the Internet the same way I used to, so if someone tweets an interesting story I'll click through to it, but it's not like I'm typing in the Web addresses of blogs the way I used to. I use Twitter as my curator of information.

What issues do you think Jezebel has brought to light?
Body images, race, politics, feminism — I'd say those are the big ones.

How has Jezebel changed?
We had a smaller audience before, and it felt like a more intimate website. ... As it got bigger and bigger, we had to broaden the subject matter and be more professional and not so personal.

Their loss

Urban Outfitters won't sell the book because they felt the blog had burned them. How do you feel about that?
If people are feeling hurt then they don't want to be generous, do they? I wasn't surprised, but I was disappointed. I think it's the kind of book their clientele would be interested in. I think it's more their loss than our loss.

Honor system

At the hotels

Before leaving for dinner during your stay at Hotel du Petit Moulin or Pavillon de la Reine, stop for a drink at the Honesty Bar: Fix yourself a cocktail and, on the honor system, check the price list and leave the appropriate number of euros. But, ironically, both hotels have just added a Dishonesty Hour, Wednesdays from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m., when you can help yourself to drinks for free.

4 Boutiques to visit in Paris' Marais district

Destinations. Fashionistas and fromage abound in this hip area.

Besides the Eiffel Tower, the Louvre and other touristy (but essential) stops for Parisian visitors, the trendy Marais district — like New York City's SoHo or West Village — is a must.

But the Marais, which translates to "marsh" in French, wasn't always as hip as it is now. Tour guide Skall (yes, that's his full name — he's French, OK?) tells us that the influx of the gay community in the 1980s restored the enclave's cool factor. The arrival of art dealers also helped, as the area today is famous for its contemporary galleries. While gallery-hopping, make sure you stop by these other establishments for a truly tres magnifique Marais experience.

Le Marche des Enfants Rouges

The city's oldest covered market is also the area's best kept secret: Walk through an alleyway to enter this indoor bazaar, where you'll likely bump into Parisians doing their grocery shopping. You can buy everything from local produce to international foods. The market is also a great place to stop for a bite, with cuisines ranging from Japanese to French to Moroccan represented.

Dalloyau

The history of this sweets shop is almost as rich as its chocolates. King Louis XIV hired Charles Dalloyau after a tasting, and he and his brothers worked for the royal court over four generations. The store is famous for its opera cake: a thin layer cake soaked in coffee syrup and topped with coffee buttercream, chocolate ganache and a dark chocolate coating.

Merci

Picture the ABC Carpet & Home of Paris and you've got Merci. Shop for quirky souvenirs — Eiffel Tower cookie cutter, anyone? — plus home furnishings (there's a plethora of kitchen items on the top level), clothes, bath products, stationery and much more. The store recently did a collaboration with the Museum of Modern Art, so you know the goods are stylin'. When you're done shopping, stop at Merci's cafe for lunch and coffee.

Say 'oui' to cheese

Fromagerie Jouannault

No trip to Paris would be complete without a visit to a specialty cheese shop. Whether you like your curd from cows, sheep or goats, find it here (even if it didn't originate in France). Want to take some cheese back to the States? The staff will vacuum-seal your haul so it's TSA-friendly.

Stay in the Marais

HOTEL DU PETIT MOULIN

Hotel du Petit Moulin

This quirky hotel used to house the oldest bakery in Paris (the exterior retains its original signage, so the charm still remains). Each room is decorated in a unique fashion by Christian Lacroix, and the eccentric nature of the building means that each room is shaped differently as well. If you can, book room 104 — you'll walk down a flight of zebra-print steps into your private dwelling. In the morning, there's continental breakfast. Rooms start at 250 euros (about $336) per night.

Pavillon de la Reine

It's easy to walk by this ivy-covered hotel — it's hidden in a private courtyard behind shops off the Place des Vosges. Ask for one of the recently renovated rooms, which are loft-style and overlook the private courtyard. Come down for eggs, ham, cheese and those fabulous French pastries in the morning. Rooms start at 385 euros (about $518) per night.

Thor's success in numbers

Re: '"Thor: The Dark World" clobbers the competition' (Metro, Nov. 11) No kidding. A violent, loud film with a lot of special effects, placed in over 3,000 theaters across the U.S., topped the box office results this weekend. Try limiting it to 1,000 theaters and see how it does.

Help victims of typhoon

Re: 'Survivors "walk like zombies" after deadly typhoon kills 10,000' (Metro, Nov. 11) Typhoon Haiyan has left widespread death and destruction in the Philippines that is truly unimaginable. As the death toll stands now, it's 10,000, and it is rising with bodies being found in the aftermath of the worst storm in recorded history. This storm was of epic proportions — even of biblical proportions. This horrific loss of life grieves many, and more so of those who have family in the region. As such, my heartfelt prayers goes out to these families who have lost so much. The Philippines is going to need a lot of help in terms of medical, food and financial assistance in the midst of all this devastation. As Americans, I'm asking all who can, to contribute to this worthy effort in helping the poor people in the Philippines. There are a number or charitable organizations that can help like: The American Red Cross, UNICEF, Save the Children and the Catholic Relief Services and local religious and community groups to mention a few. So please give, for these people need our help.

Bruins again shred Tampa

NHL. The Bruins have won three games straight after a recent mini-slump.

The Tampa Bay Lightning have the best record in the Eastern Conference, which is hard to believe if you've seen their three games versus Boston so far this season. The Bruins blanked the Lightning, 3-0, Monday at TD Garden — and they've out-scored the Lightning, 11-1, this season. Tampa Bay gets one more shot at Boston this season before the playoffs: March 8 at home.

Of immediate significance to the Lightning: Steven Stamkos left in the second period on a stretcher after crashing into the post on his own net. It would be impossible to replace him for a significant amount of time since he is tied for first in the NHL in goals and points.

Meanwhile, Tuukka Rask notched his second shutout of the season.

"In my mind, he's the best goaltender in the NHL," B's defenseman Adam McQuaid said. "It's coming to be what we expect of him."

Patrice Bergeron scored his third goal in the last two games and Daniel Paille finished a backhander on a breakaway the following shift in a big second period for Boston. The B's now take on Columbus Thursday at home (7 p.m., NESN).

Bruins defenseman Torey Krug has been phenomenal to start the 2013-14 season. / GETTY IMAGES

Krug file

Bruins defenseman Torey Krug may not have the slap shot of teammate Zdeno Chara, but he's quite accurate:

- Krug has a shooting percentage of 16.7, which is third best on the team.
- The defenseman is typically paired with Dennis Seidenberg and averages a healthy 17:46 of ice time.
- Krug has 11 points on the season and assisted on Patrice Bergeron's second period goal in Monday's 3-0 win over Tampa Bay at TD Garden.

B's defenseman Krug poised beyond years

NHL. Torey Krug has wasted little time in proving that he's more than NHL-ready.

Any thoughts of Torey Krug being a flash in the pan in the 2013 postseason, when he burst onto the scene with four goals and two assists in 15 playoff games, have quickly been extinguished by his hot start to the 2013-14 regular season.

Krug's only 22 and is playing in his first full NHL season, but is tied with Ottawa's Erik Karlsson for most goals by a defenseman, with six so far this season. It's been quite a whirlwind for the former Michigan State captain these past few years as he was never even drafted, but signed with Boston in March 2012.

For years under head coach Claude Julien, the Bruins have been known for excellent defensive play and conservative defensemen. Krug is an outlier to this model since he is superb at jumping into the rush (witness his goal Oct. 26 vs. New Jersey) and is also a real weapon on the power play (three goals, three assists).

One of the reasons that Julien can live with Krug taking chances offensively is that he's more than just an offensive-minded defenseman like Florida's Brian Campbell.

He might be small (generously listed at 5-foot-9 and 180 pounds) but his low center of gravity makes him strong on his skates and tough to knock off the puck.

He's got a knack

"It's about confidence. He's got lots of it right now. He seems to have a knack for jumping into the holes at the right times."

Claude Julien, Bruins head coach
To reporters this past week on Torey Krug jumping into the rush

Don't be Racist!
Don't be Kimmel!

Be like the PANDA!

They are BLACK,
WHITE
& ASIAN.

Jimmy Kimmel and the ABC network sent a very bad message that it is "interesting" to kill all the people to whom you owe money in "The Kids Table - Government Shut Down" (aired on 10/16/2013)

A formal, public apology must be issued by ABC and Jimmy Kimmel to ALL of its viewers, not just those who are Chinese, because this promotes hatred, racism and genocide. ABC should fire Jimmy Kimmel and anyone else responsible for letting this happen. A policy must be institutionalized so that this kind of racist stupidity will never happen again.
